

STEMTM

The Future of Vitality

The Origin of Helix Stem™

In 1929 a Canadian doctor, Dr. John Davidson, made an astounding discovery: an extract he extracted from the gel mass of fertilized avian egg harvested exactly on the 9th day of gestation, when given to patients created incredible positive health benefits. In fact, this extract given to his patients would accelerate healing processes of those experiencing several degenerative diseases. He performed many tests on the use of this whole food product and submitted his findings to several professional peer conferences and publications.

The Origin of Helix Stem™ (Continued)

One of his most famous successfully treated patients, a member of the Canadian parliament, attempted to obtain funding from both his university and the Prime Minister of Canada but was met with no success. Without proper funding Dr. Davidson could not get the support needed to have his great discovery scientifically substantiated. A few years after this he passed away and this amazing discovery of avian extract, and it's many possible beneficial health benefits, passed with him, not to be re-discovered until nearly 50 years later.

What Exactly Does Helix Stem™ Do?

In a nutshell, Helix Stem™ does something no other whole food supplement has been shown to do: It appears to create many of the same benefits that a vastly more expensive treatment of stem cell therapy does: namely to both increase the number and activity of the stem cells in the human body. Since the role of stem cells is to both rebuild and repair damaged cells anywhere in the human body, the beneficial effect of Helix Stem™ is to generally “turn back the hands of time” and slow down the aging process.
